

CRASH: THE EMBER TOMB

A SHADOWDARK ADVENTURE

THE WORLD OF KAVROS

Once, Kavros was a world of beauty and abundance. Its people mastered the elements, bending them to their will. But their ambition was boundless, and in their hunger for more power, they tore open the foundations of their world.

From the wound came Pyrakos, the First Flame — a titan of living fire, born from the planet’s molten heart. In a final act of defiance, the last of Kavros’ people bound the titan beneath the world in chains of iron and sorcery. The victory cost them everything.

Now, centuries later, the land above lies broken and ashen. Black glass plains stretch to the horizon. The sky burns dull red. The air itself carries the memory of fire. The dead do not rest — their souls twist in the lingering heat, bound to the embers of what they once were.

And deep below, the flame still stirs.

THE CALL TO DESCEND

Recently, the Guild of Discovery augurs reported violent heat surges and tremors from beneath the massive seal where Pyrakos is believed to be entombed.

GUILD REPORT — ENTRY 19

“The glyphs at site eleven confirm it. The titan was bound to the world itself. The heat beneath the tomb rises violently. Our augurs sense movement — something vast, turning in its sleep.

We’re sealing the upper gate until a team descends. Take great care. The air burns, and the dead do not rest. Should Pyrakos wake, the fire that ended this world may spread across the cosmos.”

YOUR MISSION:

- Descend through the outer ruins of the tomb.
- Assess the integrity of the ancient wards.
- Restore or reinforce the seal if possible.
- Return alive to report structural status.

If Pyrakos wakes, the fire that ended this world may spread beyond it.

WHAT YOU KNOW

- The Surface: Endless ash, skeletal ruins, rivers of half-cooled magma. The sun never breaks through the haze.
- The Tomb: Melted halls, runes burned into stone, heat thick enough to warp metal.
- The Dead: Fire-touched husks and wraiths of ash, still guarding the sacred halls.
- The Seal: A vast iron gate marked by a circular glyph, cracked and faintly glowing from within.

RUMORS

- A rumor will be provided to each player the day-of-play.
- Players are encouraged to share what their characters have learned to better equip themselves for what’s ahead.
- Some rumors may just be simple gossip.

SURVIVAL NOTES

- Heat: The deeper you go, the more it suffocates. Metal burns skin. Air sizzles to breathe.
- Light: Fire behaves strangely — torches burn shorter, sometimes die without warning.
- The Dead: Drawn to sound and movement. Stay silent if you don’t want to disturb the dead.
- Magic: Fire magic is unstable here- the Primeval fire of Pyrakos must be to blame.
